About the Speaker

Chris Ebert has been working as a Paralegal for the last seven years assisting clients resolve their issues with their creditors. His interest in credit repair started after a failed business venture left him in six figure debt. He satisfied all his creditors with out declaring bankruptcy. From this experience, Chris developed a passion for the credit industry and soon associated himself with a law firm assisting clients to deal with their creditors. Over the years, he has reviewed thousands of credit reports and counseled many people on the best way to deal with their creditors.
